

Section 388.1618 – Online Learning Cost Report

Michigan Department of Education
Office of Education Improvement and Innovation
Educational Technology and Data Coordination

December 15, 2012

Introduction

The Michigan Department of Education (MDE) is providing this online learning cost report pursuant to Public Act 201 of 2012 Section 18 (MCL 388.1618), also known as the 2012-13 School Aid Act:

Section 18. (11) Not later than October 1, 2012, if a district or intermediate district offers online learning, the district or intermediate district shall submit to the department a report that details the per-pupil costs of operating the online learning. The report shall include, on a per-pupil basis, at least all of the following costs:

- (a) Textbooks, instructional materials, and supplies, including electronic instructional material.*
- (b) Computer and other electronic equipment, including internet and telephone access.*
- (c) Salaries and benefits for the online learning employees.*
- (d) Purchased courses and curricula.*
- (e) Fees associated with oversight and regulation.*
- (f) Travel costs associated with school activities and testing.*
- (g) Facilities costs.*
- (h) Costs associated with special education.*

Section 18. (12) Not later than December 31, 2012, the department shall issue a report to the legislature including the following:

- (a) A review of the data submitted under subsection (11).*
- (b) A comparison with costs of substantially similar programs in other states and relevant national research on the costs of online learning.*
- (c) Any conclusions concerning factors or characteristics of online learning programs that make a difference in the costs of operating the programs.*

This report is intended to satisfy Section (12) department reporting requirements. The report is structured according to the reporting requirements.

Section 12(a): A review of the data submitted under subsection (11).

The MDE notified public school districts, public school academies, and intermediate school districts (districts) of the online learning cost reporting requirement (subsection 11) on September 13, 2012, and 373 districts responded via web survey. A majority of districts indicated they experienced difficulty providing accurate data because they didn't collect this data for the 2011-12 school year:

- Did not collect data, reported $0 in all categories 248 (66%)
- Did collect data 125 (34%)
- Total 373*

Please see Attachment A indicating the location of districts reporting. Please see Attachment B for a list of districts reporting.*

In addition to districts not collecting the data and thus not reporting, several districts failed to provide per-pupil cost estimates. Instead, they provided gross costs for operating the program as a whole. Because districts did not provide the number of students served by these programs, the MDE was not able to disaggregate the data for these districts.

The following are the ranges and averages reported for each of the categories under Section (11):

- (a) Textbooks, instructional materials, and supplies, including electronic instructional material
 - Low $0/student
 - High $2,358/student
 - Average $289/student (not including districts entering $0)
- (b) Computer and other electronic equipment, including internet and telephone access
 - Low $0/student
 - High $4,265/student
 - Average $660/student (not including districts entering $0)
- (c) Salaries and benefits for the online learning employees
 - Low $0/student
 - High $4,499/student

- Purchased courses and curricula*
 - Low $0/student
 - High $13,717/student
 - Average $2,745/student(not including districts entering $0)
- (d) Fees associated with oversight and regulation

 - Average $805/student (not including districts entering $0)
- (e) Travel costs associated with school activities and testing

 - Average $2,058/student (not including districts entering $0)

Section 12 (b): A comparison with costs of substantially similar programs in other states and relevant national research on the costs of online learning.

The MDE considered several potential sources when preparing a cost comparison for substantially similar programs in other states. The University of Wisconsin’s Education College maintains a frequently updated website with a wealth of resources that provides helpful information:

- <http://depd.wisc.edu/html/reports3.htm>

One resource, published by the Wisconsin Virtual School (<http://www.wisconsinvirtualschool.org/>), was extremely helpful. The Wisconsin Virtual School is a supplemental virtual education service provider operated by a found Wisconsin districts are paying an annualized cost comparable to Michigan’s base foundation allowance:

	Semester 1	Semester 2
• Course Cost (6/Semester)	$1,950	$1,950
• “LEG” Mentor Support ¹ (Local Education Guide)	$702	$702
• Computer Purchase	$800
• IT Support	$88	$88
• Student Internet Connectivity	$90	$90
Per Semester Cost	$3,630	$2,830	$6,460 ²

¹“LEG” support includes approx. 1 hour per week for 36 weeks (Average teacher salary with benefits $50,000/185 days = $270/day, $270/7 periods = $39/hour).

²$6,460 is 92 percent of the base Michigan 2012-13 Foundation Allowance of ($6,966).

Please find a copy of the Wisconsin cost report at http://www.techplan.org/downloads/pdfs/making_a_smart_investment_-_wisconsin_20121207_120355_2.pdf.

The International Association for K-12 Online Learning (iNACOL) is a national resource center that also provided helpful insight. iNACOL recently completed a multi-state online learning cost study, Funding Models for Full-Time and Supplemental Online Programs. iNACOL Vice President Allison Powell presented the findings at the Virtual School Symposium in October 2012. The following is a summary of what Ms. Powell presented on the results of a national online learning cost study:

- Size - Most have a few thousand to about 20,000 course enrollments (one student taking one semester-long course) in 2011-12.
- Funding - Funded primarily by legislative appropriation, sometimes supplemented by charging course fees

- Grade level - Grade levels are primarily high school, although half offer middle school courses and most offer high school courses to middle school students.
- Full-time students - Most provide supplemental courses to students who are enrolled in another school full time. Though half offer a full-time option, most serve few or no full-time students.

Organization Type - Run by or within the state education agency.

- Accountability for student achievement - Most state virtual schools work in partnership with local school districts, which grant the credit for the online course. The state virtual school provides the grade for the course. With the exception of courses that have a common exam that is the same for both online and face-to-face courses (e.g., Advanced Placement courses and, in some states, end-of-course exams), in most cases student achievement is not easily tracked beyond measures such as grades and course completions.

Organization Type - Often organized as a charter school.

- Affiliation - Many schools are affiliated with a national organization, such as Connections Education, K12 Inc., Advanced Academics, or Insight Schools, which provides courses, software, teacher professional development, and other key management and logistical support.
- Geographic reach - Most of these schools attract students from across the entire state, in order to achieve scale; therefore most of these schools are in states that allow students to enroll across district lines and have funding follow the student. The Electronic Course Program in Texas offers full-time online courses statewide to students in grades 3-10.
- All grade levels - Are offered in online schools collectively, although individual schools may be limited to older or younger students.
- Funding - Is often provided via state public education funds that follow the student, though some are funded through appropriations, fees, or grants.
- Enrollments - Most have few or no part-time students, and most have enrollment of a few hundred to several thousand students (FTE).

schools, they are accountable in the same ways as all other public schools and/or charter schools in the states in which they operate. They report results of state assessments and Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP).

Cost Comparisons:

- An independent, national study by Augenblick, Palaich & Associates³ suggests virtual schools funding cost about the same as those of a regular brick and mortar school.
 - Costs for full-time virtual schools ranged from $7,200 - $8,300 per pupil, which would represent a savings compared to $10,000 per pupil national average for K-12 education.
 - Average funding for virtual charter schools in the U.S. is $6,500 per pupil (2010) with the spending breakdowns:
 - Teachers 26%
 - Technology 24%
 - Curriculum 20%
 - Administration 15%
 - Community Outreach 6%
 - Board/Sponsor 6%
 - Facilities 3%

Section 12 (c): Any conclusions concerning factors or characteristics of online learning programs that make a difference in the costs of operating the programs.

Following are the MDE conclusions concerning the factors or characteristics of online learning programs that make a difference in the costs of operating the programs:

with operating online programs. There was a high level of under-reporting and variance in the data that was reported. The MDE anticipates data quality will improve for the 2012-2013 school year because districts are now aware of this new legislative requirement.

- When totaling the average cost of operating an online program, given the data the MDE was able to collect, the result is $6,409/student or 92 percent of the base 2012-13 Foundation Allowance ($6,966/student). This is also in line with Wisconsin's and iNACOL's "typical" per-pupil expenditure.

- In the era of "Any Time, Any Place, Any Way, Any Pace" learning, blended learning should be factored into the cost of online learning.

(i) "Blended learning" means a hybrid instructional delivery model where pupils are provided face-to-face instruction, in part at a supervised school facility away from home and partially through computer-based and internet-connected learning environments with some degree of pupil control over time, location, and pace of instruction. (2012-13 School Aid Act, Section 22.f)

Blended learning carries a combination of costs for both online and in-the-building instruction, which may or may not increase the cost of education. With the rise of blended instruction, it will become increasingly difficult to separate out online costs from other educational expenses.

- Online learning continues to be an innovative practice in Michigan. Cost pressures are contributing to school district consideration of online options. A difference in per-pupil funding, below the base Foundation Allowance, for online-only instruction may limit educational innovation.
